The safety of our patients is our No. 1 priority. That’s why we have implemented a strict, multi-layer process to ensure your safety while receiving care within our hospital. This process includes:

- A visitor restriction policy which aligns with recommendations from the CDC and State of California. Exceptions include end-of-life, minors, NICU parents and maternity patients.

- Screenings:
  - All our employees are asked to self-screen before coming to work. If they are symptomatic, they must call their supervisor and stay home.
  - Anyone entering the hospital is screened for fever and other symptoms that may be suggestive of COVID-19.
  - If any caregiver develops symptoms while at work, they immediately alert their supervisor, contact Caregiver Health Services and go home under self-quarantine.

- Isolating COVID-19 positive and suspected patients. This keeps the rest of the hospital safe.

- Implementing measures that ensure we meet social distancing directives. In addition, we ask eligible visitors to limit travel within the hospital to the patient’s room they are visiting, cafeteria and restroom.

- Universal masking – all our employees wear appropriate hospital-issued masks while in the patient care setting.

- Frequent cleaning and disinfection throughout the hospital, including the use of ultraviolet (UV) disinfection technology proven to destroy SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19, among other germs and viruses, for terminal cleaning of isolation patient rooms and operating rooms.

- Asking anyone entering the facility and patient rooms to use hand sanitizer.

Thank you for the opportunity to care for you during the COVID-19 health crisis. You can rest assured knowing that our safety measures are helping prevent the spread of COVID-19.
